

Hello Y2 children and families.

Hopefully you are all well and you are still enjoying your home learning tasks. I am looking forward to hearing about how it has all been going when we return to school.

I was wondering how many children have managed to master the 'empty number line' method for subtraction yet? If you are finding this method tricky then don't forget that there is a video on the home learning section of the website that shows you how to do it. Keep safe and well everybody and I hope you all have a lovely Easter
